One of the work of the C. D. O. Commission, or the the members, Mr P. H. Emanuel, while work now being performed by a body of taking a "header" from the spring board, lost his balance and, there being very little water in the bath at the time, went to the bottom, striking his head on a rock which exists there much to the annoyance and inconvenience of bathers and which might be removed at a very small cost with only a slight attention on the part of the steward, who has been asked repeatedly to take up the obstruction. Mr Emanuel was fortunately not seriously injured. With reference to the small case reported in our Summary Jurisdiction Court proceedings to-day, it may be pointed out how miserable a glimpse it gives into one phase of native life amongst the lowest stratum of the poor. The plaintiff in the case, a loathsome hag, as old apparently in vice as in years, appeared in Court with two blind girls under her care; one of them the poor creature whom the suit concerned. The uses to which these unfortunates are devoted is a miserable one. They are trained to sing or play, and then to go on the street at night, like the blind young beggars at home and abroad of whom so many doleful tales have been written. Their earnings in this way come to be say some 400 cash a night; the money goes to such harpies as the plaintiff, who maintain their gangs of them, under a system of cruelty, misery and immorality which one cannot think of without deep sorrow.

THERE was a large muster this afternoon at the Fire Brigade Parade, C. V. Creagh Esq., the Superintendent, Captain McEuen 9 p.m. - Meeting of Perseverance Lodge deputy superintendent and many others who had come specially to see the new engine at work, being present. The manual engines went down to West Point for practice, the three steam engines being taken to the Praya Central. A very successful parade was gone through and the Friday, new engine's capacity tested with satisfactory results. There was a slight break-down at the close of the parade, when, the bushes of the new engine not being properly adjusted she had to have a tracing block rigged on to convey her home. This is of slight importance as it can be attended to at once by Mr D. H. Bailey, the superintending engineer. On the whole, the parade was a decided success. A visit from some of the volunteer fireman at these parades would be a welcome sight. Many Volunteers don the uniform only when an alarm of fire is given; they are conspicuous by their absence on parade days. This should THE North China Daily News publishes Mr not be.

These are, at least one half of them are, on duty, and thus the onus of working the whole of the engines, &c. is thrown on the Chinese, who are utterly incapable of even fixing a nozzle, or of understanding a manual, much less steam fire-engine." It is nonsensical to suppose that a Brigade comprising three about twelve extincteurs, twelve portable pumps and a number-say, without exag geration about 25-fire-ladders, escapes, &c. can be superintended by about ten Europeans. Some notice of this ought to be taken.

WE regret to learn, says the Japan Mail, of the death of Mr L. Bonnat, of the Grand Hotel, Yokohama. Mr Bonnat left here on the 16th May, for his home, via America. He only reached New York, where he died. A telegram arrived on Sunday, announcing the sad fact. Mr Bonnat was well known in Yokohama, and the genial face of this landlord par excellence will be greatly missed in our little community. He leaves many friends here.

The worst of tussur silk is that it takes the dye badly; except, indeed, aniline dyes, the use of which are undoubtedly affected one way or other however, is a fatal mistake. The chief things to be done are first to produce the milk in a cleaner state; it would then take dyes better; and secondly, to prohibit the use of European fugitive dyes and crude colours, and to utilize the indigenous dyes of India. These distinguished gentlemen, of French nationality, are appointed by their Government for a scientific mission, which extends to various ports in the Tropics, and for an unlimited space of time. They proceed to the South of these Islands, to Borneo, Colebes, etc., where they will make a special study of the different races and customs of the natives, as well as the climate and diseases. A Report will be prepared on all these subjects, which will be of much interest, owing to the scanty explorations that have as yet been made of these countries by scientific men. These gentlemen, who appear to have been the object of all sorts of attentions on the part of their own as well as of our Government, bring with them, among other instruments, a magnificent chronometer, belonging to the frigate Dassas, and placed at their disposal by the Minister of the Exterior in France. It is possible that Dr. Alfredo Marche, who has been independently commissioned by the Government to make a geographical exploration of the North of these Islands, will also arrive at Manila in the course of two

But although these operations have not been productive of any decisive result, the cost of conducting them has been considerable (amounting, it is estimated, in 1873-1874 to 16,713,901 guilders, or about £1,400,000; in 1875 to 23,000,000 guilders, or not far short of £2,000,000; and in 1876 to 28,500,000 guiders, or nearly For ourselves, we have to thank Mr $2,400,000), and accordingly the Dutch holds parades and inspections every week, Pender for foreshadowing so clearly the Government now finds itself compelled probability of some relief being ere long to raise money to carry on the war by afforded in regard to the transmission of borrowing. In Sumatra as in South Africa the war was undertaken with a light heart. The strength of the enemy was under-rated; the natural difficulties to be overcome were under-estimated. It was known that the adversary's forces were numerous; that his men were active, brave and skilled in fighting after their own fashion; but, nevertheless, no very formidable opposition was anticipated, and no sufficient preparations were made for overcoming the resistance which it might have been foreseen such an enemy might offer if he chose to avail himself of the advantages. he possessed. > APPALES in Central Asia, says the Pall Mall Gazette, show as little sign of settling down into permanent peace and quiet as matters nearer home. Only the other day the Mir of the semi-independent province of Badakshan was good enough to send direct to the Viceroy of India to inform him that there was not an Afghan soldier left in the territory. Now we learn that a strong expedition of Afghan troops has left Cabul to effect the pacification of Badakshan-a pacification already effected in the contrary sense. Then the Russian expedition from Tchikiallar is assuming more and more formidable proportions, and it cannot much longer be doubted that its ultimate aim is Mery. Meanwhile disturbances continue in the neighbourhood of Herat as well as on the Seistan frontier. Further east still there is yet more trouble; and, whatever may prove to be the truth about the Russians and the Chinese forces on the frontier of Kuldja, it is obvious that in this direction also elements of future disturbance must continue to exist, though they may be damped down for a time.

M. and O. & O. steamers often leaving about the same time as the M. M. Co This really beings the communication between Yokohama and India or Australia to a fortnightly one.

Again, a fixed regular weekly mail to and from Hongkong for local correspondence is of the utmost importance, especially during those months when it is almost a necessity to have regular and frequent communication with Feechow, Amoy, and Formosa, from which places letters are always forwarded that. You have not sued for damages for to Japan via Hong Kong. The detention of such letters would not only be inconve l nient and extremely annoying, but in some cases would be productive of loss

The Japan Herald, from whose columns

we take the above summary, says :--We are not at all certain that the Company would not be better off without the small subsidy they would be likely to obtain from the Government for the maintenance of this postal service, as, from not being bound down to time, they could despatch their vessels when it suited them, and when prevented by bad weather, or other cause from leading, they could postpone the departure till the ships were filled, to say nothing of being able to call at Hiogo, or any other port, for through freights, or to fill up when little offered here; but this free and easy style of running the Comthem, would hardly suit the community of trade dollars, all of which were coined when viewed in the light of carriers of for exportation, were held in the United

THE OBJECTIONABLE HABITS OF CBINESE.

(N. C. D. News.)

The objectionable habits of Chinese residng in the Settlement have often been noticed privately and much disgust felt thereat, but the unpleasant, not to say indecent sights, witnessed in the open air, at the doors of shops and on the public footways, during the hot weather have recently passed all bounds of tolerance, and have in a very great degree interfered with the pleasure of ladies taking their afternoon constitutional drive. E e veral correspondents of standing in the Settlement have written us letters on the subject for publication, and they have been withheld solely from a desire to see if the properly constituted authorities would take whatever steps may be possible (if any there be, and we presume there are) to put an end to the objectionable practices. It is no use being mealy-mouthed in such a opposed to its demonstisation. matter; the annoyance occasioned by acts of indecency and offensive practices generally, are daily to be witnessed in the public thoroughfares and in the light of day, the greatest sources of offence being the Honan road, the Hankow road, the Maloo, and the atreets leading to the pleasant drives below Hongkew. To describe the habits men who throng the footways of those thoroughfares in the cool of the evening -just at the time when foreign ladies and gentlemen seek by a drive out to reday-would be well-nigh impossible, but A fortnightly mail service would not meet | they are filthy in the extreme, and were any foreigner detected of being guilty of For homeward mails the American route is one or other of them, he would probably way that the bulk of the correspondence | Chinese shopkeeper does not fail to indulge | Rejected. this innovation, but it is regarded as the columna :-Your paragraph would seem to infer that you deem it desirable that "the properly constituted authorities should take steps to put an end to" the custom of shopkeepers and others wearing no clothing above the walst in summer time. Although I think there is not the slightest danger of any such assumption of grandmotherly authority on the part of foreign officials, yet I write as I wish to as ure your numerous native readers that your paragraph does not represent the views of the foreign residents in China generally; and that there are some among the b rbariane, like views finding currency in our cosmopolitan Settlement. As to ladies being shockedthere are many sights, as well in Paris as in Shanghai, which are better ignored than pointed at; but if they come to the Fast at all they must take it as they find it; ladies have due warning at Aden, and can turn back there if they find naked humanity in Asia quite too shocking. To this letter the Editor makes the following note :-

TRADE DOLLARS IN CHINA.

A BILL YOR THEIR EXCHANGE. In the House of Representatives on June | picule; total, 4, 168 bales; and 2,808 boxes; 18, Mr Stephens, of Georgia, Chairman of 482 piculs. Of Waste, 1,883 bales, and the Committee on Coinage. Weights, and Pierced Coccons, 686 bales for Europe. Measures, having reported a Bill for the exchange of trade dollars for legal tender dollars.

reality the Bill was one for the relief of the subjects of the Emperer of China. In February, 1873, when the Act was passed authorising the coinage of the trade dollar. it was worth a fraction over 104 cents in gold. They were not coined as money, or for circulation at home, but for export, and as a measure of value in trade, as their title indicates; they were, however, made a legal tender for five dollars in any one payment; but the people of the Pacific States objected to their circulation, and in accordance with a measure passed the previous month, they cessed to be a legal tender for any amount. The Director of the Mint, in his last annual I pany's boats, however much it might henefit | report, estimated that less than six millions

We trust that the Home Government will | where they circulated as money, and were, | For Europe, ....... more than they could buy the same quantity of silver of their own citizens. The gentleman from Georgia proposed a discrimination of 11 per cent. in favour of Chinese subjects. He would be glad to know how the gentleman proposed to provide the $30,000,000 of gold necessary to carry out the provisions of this Bill if it became a law? The genchange 4121 grain dollars with the Chinese for trade dollars of 420 grains. Did the gentleman who favoured this measure wish to donate $3,000,000 to the holders of trade dollars in China?

Mr Warner, of Ohio, offered an amendment, providing that a trade dollar that has been chopped or restamped for circulation in China or other foreign countries should be excluded from the provisions of the proposed Act. After discussion, further consideration of the Bill was postponed to the following day.

Mr Springer said that when in 1876 the legal-tender quality of the trade dollar was taken away, two-thirds of the House were

Mr Morrison (Dem., Ill ) said there were not three members who knew they were demonetising the trade dollar at the time. Mr Stephens (Dem., Ga.) closed the diecussion in advocacy of the Bill. He denied that it was in the interest of the Chinese holders of the trade dollar or of speculators, and asserted that it was in the interest of the labouring classes.

The House adopted Mr. Warner's (Dem. O.) amendments, providing that trade dollars that have been chopped or restamped in China shall be excluded from the provisions of the Act, and that trade dollars recoined under the Act shall not be counted as part of the coinage of silver authorised by Act of Feb. 28, 1878.

Mr. Keifer (Rep., O.) offered an amendment as a substitute, making the trade

The Bill was then passed without a division, and the House adjourned.

MESSRS DEACON & Co.'s Canton Market Report, dated Canton, 9th August, says:--There is but a small business to report closes very quiet.

Congous.—A few small purchases have been made here, and prices are unchanged. somewhat of late.

Scented Teas.-The strong demand for Capers, which was reported in our last circular as having sprung up, has abated, 3,800 boxes only being settled curing the larger proportion of the business done, and these kinds still continue in some demand. but for all other sorts there is little or no lenquiry. The market is cleared of all really fine toas.

"Long leaf" Pekoes have again met with but small enquiry, and only two sales of "short leaf" tea have been made : there is no change to quote in prices for these
